

Commissioned by the specialist high end residential developer Relicpride, Frixos designed, manufactured and installed the bespoke helical staircase balustrade to this premium private residence.

Frixos worked closely with the customer and main client to ensure the aesthetics and quality demanded by this project was successfully delivered on time and to budget.

Since 1978, Frixos has specialised in the design, fabrication and installation of all types of structural and architectural steel work.

With an in house team of over 80 experienced and skilled designers, fabricators and installation engineers, we work hand in hand with architects, designers, developers, contractors and other authorities seeking high quality bespoke or innovative metalwork solutions to their project budgets and other specifications.

Based in north London, close to the M25, Frixos serves a wide range of housebuilder, infrastructure and private clients predominately in London and the South East. We place a strong emphasis on service and quality and take pride in the enduring relationships we have built with our clients, suppliers and partners and our ongoing commitment to safety, quality and the development of our people.
